Welsh Newton Common has grassland, old quarries and ancient woodland. We share this place with bluebells, butterflies and moths, bees, owls, woodpeckers, woodcock, treecreepers, buzzards, bats, hedgehogs, dormice, slow worms, frogs, toads, newts and hundreds of other species.

TUES 24TH MAY 7.30 WILDLIFE & HABITATS OF WELSH NEWTON COMMON

A talk by Sarah King of Herefordshire Wildlife Trust

Common land has special significance historically and is often home to unique wildlife. Sarah King will talk about the landscape and wildlife of Welsh Newton Common, why it's special and how we can maintain its special quality into the future.

Sarah is speaking at the invitation of Welsh Newton & Llanrothal Parish Council
